www.composite-search.org getting active

As from 01 January 2007, a new website that meets the special requirements of the composite industry will be implemented on the worldwide web. The site serves as a platform to present your company to all those in search of developers and manufacturers of advanced composites and auxiliary material. For designers, buyers, engineers, sales persons and researchers it is a reflection of advanced composites. Although characterized by medium-sized businesses, many segments of the industry operate on a global scale. They include suppliers of raw material, manufacturers of finished and semi-finished products and specific machines and testing equipment, as well as auxiliary and operating material. Therefore, global and local sources are considered. The visitor is immediately linked to your site without any registration.

A preview of this "composite window" is already active on the web with reinforced fibers, machines, core material, fairs and conferences.

With the support of experts, registrations have been successfully made since September 01, 2006, while all categories will be implemented in search engines with a high ranking by January 2007.
